GARFIELD'S TRIUMPHAL JOURNEY—AT PA- RKHON, N. J.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Gen. Garfield left today for his home in Ohio. Murat Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, is a guest on the train. Mr. Garfield will rest Sunday at Chautauqua Lake.

As the train speeded past the several stations the people gathered, waved their hands, handkerchiefs, and flags, and Gen. Garfield bowed his acknowledgments. At Paterson, the first stopping place, 5,000 or 6,000 people, mostly of the laboring classes, closed around the car and cheered heartily. Gen. Garfield spoke as follows:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I thank you for this strong demonstration of your kindliness. I have been in Paterson two days, and I have seen your great industry and your great growth, but the best thing in Paterson, and the best thing in the United States, is the love of the people for the Union. I thank you for this love, and I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union. I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union. I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union. I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union.

Gen. Garfield spoke as follows to the people assembled:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: You have a down here after one of the greatest and first signs of the Declaration of Independence. He signed his name in very big letters, and he helped to make a Nation that we should be proud to have a very big letter. That name, I have no doubt, reflects a part of its glory upon the people of this country. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union.
I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union. I thank you great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union. I thank you for the great industry and growth of your people. I thank you for the great love of the people for the Union.

Gen. Garfield spoke as follows to the people
assembled:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I have learned in the last few minutes two facts about this country that are very interesting to me, and I give you them. The first fact is that you are a great people. The second fact is that you are a great people. I thank you for the great cheered by the crowd, among whom were military organizations and many ladies.

OSWEGO.

A large assemblage received the distinguished party at Oswego. Gen. Garfield spoke as follows:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I am glad to be the home of my old friend and associate for many years (referring to Congressman Platt), and to see that my neighbors are gathered to meet me and to hear me. I have no doubt you are here from all quarters of the immediate community, and will not from me, but that I may look into your faces, that I may know you, and that I may know you from your representative and from your fathers in the days of darkness, and you will be true to it in the days of sunlight and prosperity. (Applause.) This (Applause) is an emblem of prosperity that now prevails in this country. Four beautiful valley miles in the joy of its people and of the equal freedom that blesses you and ought to bless all parts of our common country. (Applause.) I thank you, and I will give you while you hear addresses from others around me. (Cheers.)

Charles G. Williams, of Wisconsin, then spoke at some length.

WATERLOO.

Gen. Garfield was somewhat hoarse when Waterloo was reached, and spoke very briefly, saying:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: Over these acres of people no man's voice can reach, and I do not attempt to speak to you, but I will ask a man to speak who some of you know. I can only say when I mention his name. Forty years ago this country was a part of the old world, and the name of Gen. William Harrison is still in the memory of the people. I thank you, and I am glad to be on this platform and to speak to you. (Cheers.)

Gen. Harrison, of Indiana, made a speech.
Meanwhile Gen. Garfield was holding a reception and shaking hands with the people.
At Oswego and here the bouquets were landed the General by ladies.

MAJOR DITEN, at Elmira, welcomed Gen.
Garfield while a band played National airs and cannon were fired.

Gen. Garfield said:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: All New York seems to be outdoors to-day, and I must have done so. I saw you in the people that you leave your houses empty (laughter), for there certainly cannot be any other place where I can only say a word to you. I know something of the history of Elmira, and I know something of the history of the people. I thank you, and I am glad to be on this platform and to speak to you. (Cheers.)

A committee of Republicans from Corning and adjoining towns joined the party at Middletown. The people crowded upon the platform to shake hands. The State Committee will open their headquarters on Monday.

At the rooms of the National Democratic demands, and had found themselves

USABLY. THE DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE.

One of the delegates from Vermont said:
"You may count on us for a regular league majority next month, and we will go above and beyond the call."

In Maine, Ohio, and Indiana the outlook was said to be very encouraging. The delegates from Vermont said that with the expenditure of a little money, the State could be carried for Garfield, and there was also some hope expressed that North Carolina and West Virginia might be carried by the Republicans. The conference on the whole was most gratifying, and all the members of the National Committee with whom the reporter talked this morning, said that they were generally encouraged, and the work of the campaign could now go forward more vigorously than ever.

A LARGE NUMBER OF LETTERS were received this morning containing news of the formation of Garfield and Arthur Campaign Clubs all over the country. The Club with more than sixty names on the roll has been formed in Westport, Fairfield County, Conn. The latter is the same Democratic town of Fairfield County, but with energetic work on the part of the Club, which is composed of the foremost citizens of the town. I look for good results there, and undoubtedly they will give a good account of themselves next November.

Mr. Jewell will leave this city for his home in Connecticut this afternoon, and will probably remain in that State to attend the State Convention, which meets next week. Gen.
Garfield will leave for Washington, D. C., on Monday.

Among the visitors at the headquarters this morning were Gen. Logan, Washington Hestings (of Wilmington, Del.), Thomas Cor-nahan (of Washington), and Franklin E.
Taylor.

The headquarters of the Republican State Committee it was said that favorable reports were received in every mail. The Committee are now able to supply documents and other campaign matter needed. This morning they began sending out copies of the Republican platform and Gen. Garfield and Gen. Arthur's letters of acceptance bound in a neat book-form.

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE have finally decided to make the headquarters at their old rooms in the St. James Hotel. This is a very desirable location, and will suit the State for ten days. Chairman Barnum, who has been anxiously looking for during the past week, returned this morning, and immediately called a conference with the members of the Committee who were present.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Gen. Hancock visited the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee to-day, and chatted with Chairman William H. Burdett and the Hon.
W. L. Scott. United States Senator Charles W. Jones, of Florida, also called.

DE LA MATRY.
HE IS DISGUSTED WITH THE SOUTHERN DEMO-CRACY.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 7.—The Rev. Gilbert De La Matry, the prominent Representative from Indiana, is much disgusted with the Democracy as he saw it in Alabama. In conversation with a reporter at the Action Club Grounds he expressed himself freely. He told the people of the South that the reason he left the Republican party was his opposition to the Southern States. He said that nationalism which it seemed to encourage. But the sectional feeling there was even more intense, and that a possible citizen of the South it aside they would speedily make a Solid North. Referring to the general political outlook, Mr. De La Matry said he expected to leave for his home in Virginia certainly, and hope thereby to throw the election of President into the hands of Representatives.

IN INDIANA THERE WILL BE A CHANGE.
The Democratic party has heretofore had a strong greenback platform and have largely sold the Greenback cause. The Greenback National platform and the nomination of English for Vice-President places them now in harmony with the National platform, and they will lose a large vote. The Greenback party will also injure them. The Solid North. Referring to the general political outlook, Mr. De La Matry said he expected to leave for his home in Virginia
certainly, and hope thereby to throw the election of President into the hands of Representatives.

SAM BOWLES.
THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

A reporter of THE TRIBUNE last night called on Mr. Samuel Bowles, the well-known editor of the Republican of Springfield, Mass., and asked him for his views on the political situation. On the reporter's object of his call Mr. Bowles said: "I really don't know that I could give you any news on the political situation. I have been for some time in Massachusetts, and I have not read the papers at all carefully, and I have not even seen any own paper for several days. You are an Eastern man. I could, perhaps, tell you more about the wheel however, I have lately read the Republican of my trip, and they all seemed of success."

"What is the situation in Massachusetts you left it?"

"Of course there is no question as to how the State will go. There is no real problem. Butler to accept the nomination at the hands of the old Faneuil-Hall Democrats, and you know that for several years politics in Massachusetts have been a mere round around Butler."

"But the regulars displayed a determined opposition to Butler. They have about 10,000 votes, while Butler polled 100,000.
There is one thing new in the there, and that is a possible intention of Butler to run as an independent candidate for Congress in his old district—the Seventh."

"With prospects so gloomy, what chance has Butler?"

"Yes, I think so. Opposed to him if he runs will probably be William A. Russell, who is identified with the paper interest.
There is considerable opposition to him on that account, and I believe that Butler could win."

"Can you tell THE TRIBUNE anything about Connecticut?"

"Connecticut has of late, as you know, been considered a safe State for the Republicans there are very confident. In fact, before the Chicago Convention prominent Republicans were carrying the State with anybody but Grant. Besides, that is Jewell's State, and he will take a kind of pride in seeing that the State chooses Hancock Electors."

"Are you particularly posted as regards New York?"

"Well, hardly so. There is one thing I can say, however. I have had rather in-imate relations with the independent republicans, what are called the 'Scratchers.' They are now, I assume, perfectly well satisfied with Garfield. They have no little influences, as they cast 20,000 votes at the last State election. New York is a close State in any event, and 10,000 votes could turn the scale either way. Beyond that I know little, as I have already said, I know little of the movements that have taken place since my departure."

In regard to his trip West, Mr. Bowles said that the various along the line of the York Pacific Railroad, to the end of which his trip extended, were jubilant over a large yield of wheat. He said that the yield of wheat had expressed it as his opinion that the yield of wheat would be at least two one-half bushels per acre above the average.
Mr. Bowles leaves for Springfield to-morrow.

THE FUTURE.

Brilliant Ending of the Buffalo Meeting Yesterday.

Hattie Woodward Wins Her Race and Trots in 2:15 1-2.

An Attractive Program Arranged for the Chicago Meeting Next Month.

Interesting Statistics Showing the Comparative Merits of Illinois and Wisconsin Trotters.

BUFFALO.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The trotting meeting concluded this morning with the 2:20 race, post-paid from yesterday. The weather was beautiful, and admission to the grounds was not over 100. Those who were present witnessed a sensational contest and a phenomenal performance by the St. Louis mare, Hattie Woodward, who won her record to 2:15, which is acknowledged to be the best heat ever trotted in a race against a large field of horses. The field against her was composed of the following: Belle Hambleton, Bashaw, Amber, Belle, and Big Fellow, and she was no secret that there was a combination to beat her if possible, and it was to demonstrate what chance she had against her further on in the circuit. Beginning at Milwaukee June 8, she had won eight races without losing a heat, and making a step, had vanquished her opponents with surprising ease, and in nearly all cases had been able to beat her first class.

She had a world of speed for a brush was conceded by the crowd, and she was not less than 2:24 in public, and the problem of the race was how fast could she be made to complete it. The race was a complete success, and the crowd was a shadow of the previous day's. Hattie Woodward, property of James H. Hambleton, was the only horse in the race that was not a favorite, and she was the only horse that was not a favorite.

ONLY ONE OPINION REGARDING ALL THE RAGE.

M'VICKER'S THEATRE,
Commencing To-morrow, Monday, Evening, August 9th.

"ALL THE RAGE,"

A Farceical Comedy by W. D. EATON, of this city.

WE DO NOT WISH TO RAISE EXTRAVAGANT EXPECTATIONS, but sincerely trust and believe that Chicago will indorse it as strongly as Boston and other cities have.

THIS IS WHAT BOSTON SAID DURING ITS RUN OF SIX WEEKS:

BOSTON HERALD, FEB. 22.

"All the Rage" is one of the most amusing plays lately seen upon the stage, and has taken immensely with patrons of the Theatre, being performed by a company of rare merit, who make every line, incident, and situation tell. Mr. Hardenbergh's personation of the cranky old chirpologist is a masterpiece. By a word, a gesture, a look, even, he arouses a storm of laughter and applause. The manner in which he tumbles down to the footlights, and the expression of his face when, in the third act, the Doctor is mistaken for a literary celebrity, is worth a long journey to see.

BOSTON HERALD, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 4.

GAITY THEATRE.—"ALL THE RAGE."—To recount these amusing incidents and anecdotes, which required four acts and two hours and a half of time to develop, would require more space than can be commanded this morning, and besides, would take away the element of surprise, upon which so much of their humor depends. Suffice it to say that the fun begins early, and increases momentarily, until it becomes uproarious at the end. The situations and incidents are cleverly contrived, the dialogue is thickly studded with bright sayings, quaint bits of humor, and pungent satire. The company which manager Hill presents in this play is of exceptional strength. Mr. Hardenbergh finds in Dr. Goodwin an eccentric character after his own heart, and he plays it to con amore. His features, his voice, his hands, and his feet, all come into play in depicting the peculiarities of the old chirpologist, and a look, an inflection, a gesture, even the gait he adopts, often alone raised a storm of laughter and applause Monday night. Mr. Davidge made of Dr. Briggs a worthy companion to Goodwin, and his very presence on the stage was a source of laughter.

BOSTON DAILY GLOBE, TUESDAY, FEB. 3.

"All the Rage" is as good a play of the kind as has been in Boston for many seasons, and it cannot fail to please the most critical audience, as was the case last evening. Out of material such as is met with almost every day in the year, Mr. Eaton has made a farceical comedy so good and so entertaining that one has, after seeing it, very much the same sensation that comes after eating one plate of peaches and cream—an intense desire for more of the same sort. Of the cast very much can be said in praise, although the greatest meed should be given to Mr. Frank Hardenbergh, as Dr. Goodwin, the central figure in the play. He has, in this character, created a part such as very few could ever hope to render as acceptably, and added very materially to the reputation which he has enjoyed in Boston more particularly. Mr. Davidge could not play badly if he tried, and he appeared to remarkably good advantage, as did the remainder of the cast, who were nearly all as good as the author could have desired. There was so much pure, unadulterated fun, sparkling wit, and so much enjoyment to be extracted from it, that one finds it impossible to criticize adversely.

BOSTON JOURNAL, TUESDAY, FEB. 3.

GAITY THEATRE.—"All the Rage" was presented for the first time in this city at the Gaity Theatre last evening. It is really a farce in four acts, the humorous and ridiculous elements almost completely overshadowing the sentimental. To unravel them by describing them, or to attempt to give an outline of the story of the piece, with its relative and interweaving complications, would require a lengthier notice than we can give. Mr. Hardenbergh kept the house in a good humor every moment he was on the floor, his personation being in every respect an excellent one, the exaggeration with which the part has been drawn being very well hidden by the easy consistency with which it was carried out to the end. Mr. Davidge is also to be credited with good acting, and shared very fairly in the applause that was bestowed. The ladies all did admirably, and the remainder of the support was such as to make the performance one of much merit. The audience was a large one, and if there is any power of attraction in pure and wholesome humor, with which is mingled a spicing of satire, "All the Rage" ought to fill the house at every entertainment.

DAILY EVENING TRAVELLER, TUESDAY, FEB. 3.

GAITY THEATRE.—"All the Rage" was given at the Gaity Theatre last evening for the first time in Boston. The piece, which is brimful of fun, begins fast and furious, and through a mixture of libels, ludicrous situations, love and sentiment, the auditor is forced along a current of constant action and anticipation until the close of the curtain. We have not the space to enter into detail as regards these points; suffice it to say that the play, like nearly all others of its class, needs to be seen in order to be understood; like a pleasant dish, to be tasted in order to be enjoyed. Foremost among the characters of last evening we were gratified to see the familiar face of Mr. Frank Hardenbergh, as Dr. Wm. Goodwin, a comedy vein in which he is entirely at home, and from which he extracted the most delicious fun. Mr. Wm. Davidge made a good Dr. C. Briggs, and Mr. J. C. Padgett as Horatio Brancy, Mr. Edwin Milliken as D. Clinton Briggs, Meta Bartlett as Sophronia Briggs, deserve special praise. The scenery should have a compliment, and the play is given with that snap so indispensable to pieces of like nature.

EVENING TRANSCRIPT, TUESDAY, FEB. 3.

GAITY THEATRE.—A four-act farceical comedy was presented last evening entitled "All the Rage." The plot is slight, but the fun abundant. An aspirant for political honor is engaged at the persistent attacks on his character by a young journalist and author, Will Goodwin. He smartens for revenge, and seeks the scribe with a view of chastising him. Goodwin has published a book which is "all the rage," and which wins the adoration of sentimental girls, but, being a sensible fellow, anxious to escape the attention they would gladly show, he takes refuge at Long Branch. Here, to gain further relief, he exchanges names with a friend. Here, too, appears a Dr. William Goodwin, a chirpologist, who is mistaken for the handsome writer, receives all the admiration intended for the junior, as well as a whipping at the hands of the abused candidate, who has hunted him down. The confusion arising from the presence of three men claiming the same name continues for a long while, doctor and editor thinking each other an impostor. After several comical scenes a satisfactory explanation of the misunderstanding is brought about. Frank Hardenbergh filled the role of the Doctor, and imparted to it much genuine humor. His general appearance was not wholly unlike that of the G. A. T. While he was on the stage there was continual laughter in the crowded house. Others in the cast were deserving of commendation, though, with the exception of William Davidge, they had little chance for making points.

Look Into the Matter Carefully Before Investing Your Money.

READ! READ! READ!

PROVIDENCE STAR, TUESDAY, MARCH 9.

The action is rapid, the dialogue bubbling with humor of the richest, purest kind, and the acting is of the highest order. Such a play, presented by such a company, cannot fail to catch on to public popularity. Frank Hardenbergh was warmly welcomed, and played with a vim, vivacity, and grace that told. He handled the really witty dialogue that fell to his part with an ease and dry naturalness that kept his auditors on a broad grin all the time. Davidge, as theirate Doctor, was almost equally happy. Those who dislike to laugh should avoid this show, but those who enjoy the ludicrous, the humorous, and the sprightly, excellently interpreted, should not miss seeing "All the Rage."

TAUNTON GAZETTE, MARCH 15.

"All the Rage" called out a good audience at Music Hall Saturday night, and we venture to say nothing has been presented on the boards of that Theatre for a long time which gave such universal satisfaction, created so much good feeling, called forth such a continuous roar of laughter, or left such a longing for more when the curtain went down at the close of the last act, as did this most rare of all farceical comedies. The situations are extremely mirth-provoking, the dialogue most racy of all farceical comedies, and was handled by Manager Hill's superb company in such a manner that a second representation would pack Music Hall to its utmost capacity.

SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN, MARCH 26.

"All the Rage" is a rollicking comedy that wants little of being a roaring farce, and its points were finely brought out by a well-balanced company at Music Hall last night. The complications which result from the possession or assumption of the same name by three individuals are numerous enough to keep the audience at a high pitch of excitement. The popularity of the piece is both inevitable and deserved.

WOONSOCKET REPORTER, MARCH 13.

"All the Rage," decidedly the raciest farceical comedy of the day, called a fashionable audience to Music Hall last evening, who were delighted at the beginning, charmed at the end, and convulsed the entire evening. The play has no dull scenes, the dialogue is replete with fresh witticisms, and is read by a well-balanced company; the costumes are rich, and the stage mountings are quite unique. A second presentation of "All the Rage" will pack any hall in America.

HARTFORD COURANT, THURSDAY, MARCH 25.

"All the Rage" is one of the successes of the season. The audience at the Opera House indorsed it to the echo last night, and deservedly so. It overflows with pure fun, brought out in its best light by the company, which has played the piece for weeks in Boston. The plot is based upon the coincidence of an eccentric old chirpologist and a talented young journalist, possessing the same name. The latter's pungent editorials have won for him enemies, and a recent brilliant work has made him "all the rage" in literary and society circles. The venerable doctor's acceptance of admission on the one hand, and denunciation on the other, are supremely amusing. Romantic young ladies, Long Branch flirtations, lively incidents, and flashes of wit everywhere throughout the text cater to the tastes of the theatre-goer of to-day. To sum up, "All the Rage" is a real success.

NEW HAVEN JOURNAL, MARCH 19.

Those who visited the New Haven Opera House last evening were treated to an entertainment that surpassed anything of its kind that has been presented here during the season. "All the Rage" is a roaring farce, of which Mr. Wm. D. Eaton is the author. It is a very clever production, and there is a good deal of merit in its witty dialogue and thorough mixing up of love and sentiment, and the rage of a slandered aspirant for political honors. The fun begins with the first act and increases to the very end, and with such humorous and competent actors as Mr. Frank Hardenbergh and Mr. William Davidge, supported by an excellent company, the piece will undoubtedly meet with a prolonged success. Nothing but praise is due to the entire company. If "All the Rage" visits this city again with the same company, secure your seats early, for the house will surely be packed.

NEW HAVEN PALLADIUM, MARCH 19.

Coe's Opera House has seldom held a more thoroughly pleased audience than that assembled last evening to witness the production of "All the Rage." The author has undoubtedly hit the popular idea of comedy drama, and the manager has as certainly hit upon an excellent company for its interpretation. "All the Rage" is brimful of fun from beginning to end, and we are at a loss to find fault in the play to condemn. The cast is almost faultless, and author, managers, and actors have reason to congratulate themselves on the success achieved last evening.

BRIDGEPORT FARMER, MARCH 20.

"All the Rage" is certainly one of the most amusing pieces ever produced here, and had the further and very desirable advantage of being interpreted by an exceptionally good company. Mr. Frank Hardenbergh and Mr. William Davidge, both comedians of high reputation, filled the principal roles in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Taking it all around, a more highly amusing entertainment is seldom given on the boards, and if it is ever presented in this city again it will probably be to a crowded house.

THE DAILY STANDARD, BRIDGEPORT, CONN., MARCH 20.

"All the Rage" is one of the most amusing of the light plays now having a run on the American stage, and, after seeing it last night at the Opera House, we are not surprised that it has so suddenly become popular. The whole plot of the piece is based upon a series of laughable mistakes in the matter of identity. The fun commences with the first scene, and grows warmer and warmer until the finish. The company is admirably adapted to the play, and could hardly be improved upon. All fitted into their places easily, and, united, made a company that left nothing to be desired. The audience was thoroughly appreciative, and round after round of applause testified to their pleasure.

NORWICH BULLETIN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17.

"All the Rage," a farceical comedy in four acts, was splendidly played before a large audience in Broad Hall last night. It is a play made up of absurdities indescribably funny, and, from the beginning to the end of the performance, the audience was kept in a roar of laughter. It was the most humorous entertainment ever given in this city.

PROVIDENCE PRESS, FRIDAY, MARCH 12.

Last evening the final performance of "All the Rage" was given at the Providence Opera House to a large audience. Laughter and applause was the order of the evening, and the people were not quiet a moment. The curtain was called up twice at the close of the third act, and, not satisfied with that, Mr. Frank Hardenbergh was called out.
